NEW QUESTION: 1

- C. Option A

D. Option D

NEW QUESTION: 2

ASA configuration snippet showing class maps and policy maps for interface GigabitEthernet0/0/0. The configuration includes class maps for inspecting HTTP and FTP traffic, and a policy map named 'POLICY_MAP' that applies these class maps to traffic on the interface.

Option A: Shows the correct configuration where the policy map 'POLICY_MAP' is applied to the interface GigabitEthernet0/0/0. The class maps 'CLASS_MAP_1' and 'CLASS_MAP_2' are correctly defined and referenced in the policy map.

Option B: Shows an incorrect configuration where the policy map 'POLICY_MAP' is not applied to the interface. The class maps are defined, but the policy map is not attached to the interface.

Option C: Shows an incorrect configuration where the policy map 'POLICY_MAP' is applied to the wrong interface (GigabitEthernet0/0/1). The class maps are defined, but the policy map is applied to the wrong interface.

Option D: Shows an incorrect configuration where the policy map 'POLICY_MAP' is applied to the interface, but the class maps are not correctly defined or referenced. The policy map references 'CLASS_MAP_1' and 'CLASS_MAP_2', but these are not defined in the configuration.

Answer: A

Explanation:

Explanation

I suppose this could be an explanation. Not 100% confident about this. The explanation refers to an interface, but the question doesn't specify that.

See the following information for how a packet matches class maps in a policy map for a given interface:

1. A packet can match only one class map in the policy map for each feature type.
2. When the packet matches a class map for a feature type, the ASA does not attempt to match it to any subsequent class maps for that feature type.
3. If the packet matches a subsequent class map for a different feature type, however, then the ASA also applies the actions for the subsequent class map, if supported. See the "Incompatibility of Certain Feature Actions" section for more information about unsupported combinations.

If a packet matches a class map for connection limits, and also matches a class map for an application inspection, then both actions are applied.

If a packet matches a class map for HTTP inspection, but also matches another class map that includes HTTP inspection, then the second class map actions are not applied.

NEW QUESTION: 4

A company with many branch stores has decided to use its best-performing store as a benchmark organization for the purpose of analyzing the accuracy and reliability of branch store financial reporting. Which one of the following is the most likely measure to be included in a financial benchmark?

- A. High amount of bad debt write-offs.
- B. High turnover of employees.
- C. High level of employee participation in setting budgets.
- D. High number of suppliers.

Answer: A

Explanation:

Internal benchmarking is the application of best practices in one part of the organization (e.g., a high-performing branch store) to its other parts (other branches). This process requires, among other things, use of quantitative and qualitative measures. A key indicator for financial performance measurement is the amount of bad debt write-offs. A high level of bad debt write-offs could indicate fraud, which would compromise the accuracy and reliability of financial reports. Bad debt write-offs may result from recording fictitious sales.
