NEW QUESTION: 1

You need to specify the correct artifacts to use in a SharePoint 2010 application for a school district. The school district's administrator needs to be able to search for student information on an intranet SharePoint 2010 portal.

Student information is currently available in another database, which supports an Open Database Connectivity

(ODBC) driver. You need to design the solution to meet the following requirements:

- *Provide a user interface to search for a student based on name.

- .Enable the administrator to select the correct student name from the search results.

- .Provide a student header section that displays the primary student identity information, which will enable the

- administrator to correlate any new information with the correct student.

- .Provide additional data entry pages to add or update additional student information.

Which approach should you recommend?

A. Design a user control and load this control in a Web Part to search for a student. Then render the student details in a SharePoint page.

B. Design connected Web Parts to share information among search data entry, student header information, and new data entry information Web Parts.

C. Design a Web Part to search for a student. Then render the student record details in a SharePoint page.

D. Design HTML Web pages to render the student details. Install these pages under the /templates/ _layouts/1033 folder and load these pages in Web Parts.

Answer: B

NEW QUESTION: 2

A. Option D

B. Option A

C. Option C

D. Option B

Answer: B

Explanation:

Partial payments with discounts

A customer might make a partial payment, with the intention of making an additional partial payment to fully settle the invoice.

For example, you offer a cash discount that specifies a 2% discount if the invoice is paid within 10 days of being issued. An invoice is posted for 100.00. If you receive a payment of 49.00 within 10 days, you would enter a credit of 49.00 in a payment journal. The credit amount is shown in the Amount to settle field in the Settle open transactions form. If the Calculate cash discounts for partial payments check box in the Accounts receivable parameters form is selected, the discount is automatically calculated. When you settle the partial payment in the Settle open transactions form, 1.00 is displayed in the Cash discount amount to take field. The discount amount is posted to a cash discount account.
