NEW QUESTION: 1

Which two values are needed to run the APIC-EM ACL Analysis tool? (Choose two.)

- A. destination port
- B. destination address
- C. source address
- D. protocol
- E. periodic refresh interval
- F. source port

Answer: B,F

NEW QUESTION: 2

Your network contains a Windows Server Update Services (WSUS) server named Server1. Server1 provides updates to client computers in two sites named Site1 and Site2.

A WSUS computer group named Group1 is configured for automatic approval.

You need to ensure that new client computers in Site2 are automatically added to Group1.

Which two actions should you perform? (Each correct answer presents part of the solution. Choose two.)

- A. Modify the Computers options in the Update Services console.
- B. Configure a Group Policy object (GPO) that enables client-side targeting.

- C. Create a new automatic approval update rule.
- D. Modify the Automatic Approvals options in the Update Services console.

Answer: A,B

Explanation:

With client-side targeting, you enable client-computers to add themselves to the computer groups you create in the WSUS console. You can enable client-side targeting through Group Policy (in an Active Directory network environment) or by editing registry entries (in a non-Active Directory network environment) for the client computers. When the client computers connect to the WSUS server, they will add themselves into the correct computer group. Client-side targeting is an excellent option if you have many client computers and want to automate the process of assigning them to computer groups. To enable client-side targeting on your WSUS server, click the Use Group Policy or registry settings on client computers option on the Computers Options page.

WRONG ANSWERS

On the Automatic Approval Options page, you can configure your WSUS server to automatically approve installation or detection for updates and associated metadata when they are downloaded to the WSUS server during synchronization. Reference:

MY NOTE: Basically, Automatic Approvals are for making sure updates are automatically let out into the network, but we were asked about having clients being automatically added into Group1.
